

SmartStream Embraces Innovation by Opening Lab in Vienna

Andreas Burner and Victor Anderson discuss the details around SmartStream's recently launched innovation lab in Vienna and what innovation means to a firm like SmartStream.

SmartStream's chief innovation officer, Andreas Burner, sits down with Victor Anderson and talks him through the benefits and technologies currently under the microscope at the firm's recently opened innovation lab in Vienna, Austria.

In part one of the two-part series, SmartStream's Andreas Burner talks to Victor Anderson about a number of issues pertaining to his role as head of the firm's innovation lab in Vienna, including:

- The reason for the establishment of the lab and the thinking behind the move to create such a center.
- What AI means to a company like SmartStream in terms of the technologies it is looking to develop and integrate into its current products.
- The day-to-day benefits SmartStream aims to deliver to its clients through the inclusion of various AI technologies.